CORPORATE TRAINER IN THE AI ERA

AI can generate the training deck overnight. Companies pay for the human who changes how the room works on Monday.

★ TL;DR — Corporate training at a ~$75K median, with 6–12 months to a credible specialty, a signature workshop and the certificate big employers like to see. The catch: AI is eating generic training — specialists with real floor experience keep the budget. ★

THE CAREER GLITCH TAKE

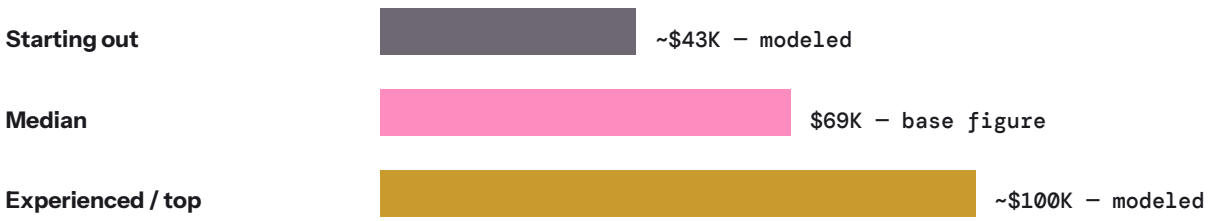

OUR TAKE: YES

MEDIAN ~$69K · TRAINING 6-12 months · AI RISK MEDIUM · CERTIFICATE

- AI risk is real but selective: content generation automated, facilitation and diagnosis didn't.
- Your past career is the product — trainers who've done the job outsell trainers who've only studied it.
- Buyers purchase outcomes (safety, ramp time, sales), not 'training' in the abstract.

The site's take, built from this profession's numbers in the Career Glitch base.

THE MONEY — LOOK AT THE BARS

The Career Glitch base figure for Corporate Trainer is a ~$69K median (compiled from U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, Occupational Outlook Handbook ranges). The starting and top bars are modeled around that median — orientation, not a promise. Pay swings hard by state, employer and experience: check live postings in your state before planning around any number.

WHAT DOES A CORPORATE TRAINER ACTUALLY DO?

- ✓ Diagnosing what a team actually needs to learn
- ✓ Designing programs, materials and exercises
- ✓ Delivering workshops live and online
- ✓ Measuring results and reporting back to managers

Think: a teacher whose students are adults, and whose homework is their actual job.

WHAT AI ALREADY TOOK (AND WHAT IT CAN'T)

THE ROBOT	THE HUMAN
Slide decks, e-learning modules, quizzes and generic content now generate at scale. Any trainer whose value was 'making the materials' is competing with a prompt.	Reading a room of skeptics, adapting mid-session to a company's real problems, and coaching managers through behavior change. Companies renew humans who move their numbers.

⚠ Training budgets are the first thing cut in a bad quarter. Employees feel it as smaller projects; independent trainers feel it as silence.

THE VIBE — IS THIS YOUR LIFE?

THE JOB IS	THE JOB IS NOT
✓ New companies, topics and rooms constantly ✓ Professional audiences and grown-up problems ✓ Partly remote: design from anywhere, deliver anywhere	✗ Presentation and travel grind in delivery weeks ✗ Feast-and-famine cycles if you're independent ✗ You're blamed for outcomes that managers control

Good fit? You've done a real job well, you can hold a room, and you think in business outcomes. Bad fit? Your expertise is only theoretical, or performing for professionals all day exhausts you.

THE FORK — PICK ONE DOOR

DOOR A — INTERNAL L&D; ROLE	DOOR B — INDEPENDENT SPECIALIST
Join a company's learning-and-development team. Steady salary, real budgets, and you learn the buyer side of training from inside — the education every independent trainer wishes they had.	Sell a signature workshop to many companies as an outside specialist. Higher day rates and freedom, paid for with your own pipeline, marketing and dry months.

Smart move: Attach your training to a number the business already watches — incidents, ramp time, conversion — and your budget survives the cuts that kill 'soft skills' programs.

Where you land after: Senior L&D; lead inside a company, or an independent practice with repeat corporate clients.

- A complete session: objectives, exercises, materials, follow-up
- Designed for a real room, not for a brochure

STEP 3 — Earn a recognized certificate

CREDENTIAL · MONTHS 3-7

- Complete the training/facilitation certificate corporate buyers recognize
- It won't make you good — it gets your proposal read

STEP 4 — Deliver pilot sessions

MONTHS 4-8

- Run the workshop internally or for pilot clients
- Collect outcome stories and hard feedback; rebuild what flopped

STEP 5 — Collect proof

MONTHS 7-10

- Measure something before and after — even simply
- Turn results into testimonials and a one-page case summary

STEP 6 — Sell the calendar

MONTHS 9-12

- Pitch L&D; and operations managers with outcomes first
- Book repeat engagements before chasing new logos

FIRST 90 DAYS — JUST DO THIS

□ Today: define the one workshop you would sell, in one sentence.

□ Days 1–30: workshop built; a pilot audience lined up.

□ Days 31–60: certificate study started; first pilot session delivered.

□ Days 61–90: feedback folded in; outcome story written; employer outreach begun.

□ Day 90: sessions delivered, proof in hand, and a pipeline that didn't exist three months ago.
